PRESIDENTIAL CEREBRATIONS

Eric Severeid, the CBS commentator, former war correspondent and newspaper columnist, anticipates the Carter government a continuation of the Kennedy era abruptly ended by the assassination in Dallas.

He sees no greater concern for the future than when Kennedy took over in January, 1961, nor when any other modern president entered office, citing Averell Harriman's confidence in a meeting of heavy "formers and exes" among earlier administrations.

President-Elect Carter may be anticipating that wisdom. A current statement is that he, Carter, foresees a diminishing unemployment rate within his four years, but foresees no rapid change in the 8 per cent figure early in his administration. So much for the huckerstering of fast creation of jobs.

The President-elect says Arthur Burns may stay on in charge of federal banking. This acknowledges the slowing of the national economy and recognition of concern in the finance community toward Carter economics.

Henry Kissinger will be gone, and a number of names are dropping for the State assignment, among other peeks into a tentative Carter Cabinet.

The President-elect also conciliated and compromised in a 2-1 congregational vote to integrate his Southern Baptist Church in Plains, Ga., perhaps recognition of a moment of truth for the rural South, object of so much criticism during the '60s when two Kennedys and a King were killed.

President Ford has returned from a visit to Florida and talked about looking for a retirement home there. He is already acceding to the role of transition President, easing out as he was eased into the vice-presidency, good ol' Jerry Ford cooperative and properly decorous to the time.

Severeid is right. Ford joins Richard Nixon and Lyndon Johnson in that transition between Kennedy's assassination and Carter's election. And polls show that Carter would have won regardless how many more voted. The Georgian indeed would have won by wider margin, possibly by 9 points.

Mr. Carter has already publicly repudiated one rampart of the South's past, dismissing divided church membership in the manner that Eisenhower dismissed divided school attendance in Little Rock in 1957.

The question is how far will the President-elect take the "gee whiz" attitude into his first term. The likes of brother Billy putting everything down but his President-elect brother on TV will not fly far beyond Atlanta.

More than half chose Jimmy Carter because "they wanted a change." The same rationale narrowly defeated Richard Nixon in 1960 and made him politically paranoid in June, 1972.

Jimmy Carter's main concern beyond transition is evaluating what roughly half of the United States thinks of his potential. That's a lot of real estate, 26 states which in minority did not vote for him.

Though he is not a plurality president, he might as well be.

With apologies to observer Severeid, this column expects:

ONE--Considerable emulation of the John Kennedy government, mixed party representation in the Cabinet, a stirring inaugural address.

TWO--Expanded thrust of government - induced finance through Small Business Administration and other agencies, tax incentives for large and small business and some easing of credit to assuage Wall Street and Main Street (what is left of it beyond shopping centers) that Carter is anything but anti-business.

THREE--Appeals to organized labor to co-operate in wage negotiations to avoid further expensive strikes in a cooling economy only 18 months after a post-Vietnam recession.

FOUR--Pressure for opportunities among minorities who voted so heavily for Carter-Mondale paired with blandishments of some kind for the middle-class and Western-state vote which simply did not buy the Carter candidacy.

If the President is the people's president, then Mr. Carter has conciliation uppermost in his domestic mind, more open, but aggressive foreign policy in his frontal lobes and low-key economics in his cerebellum.

Highway 36 Work Due Start

The Cameron street department is preparing for its work to be done before the highway department starts its paving and improvements for Highway 36 from the underpass, city councilmen learned Tuesday evening at a regular council session. They also heard a proposal to start a city bus service from a local man.

St Dept Supt Alvin Hefft said his department has gone over work to be done on the highway with Calvin Shenkir, highway department engineer and is at present installing an 8" water line to customers on the east end of town along the highway.

The highway department has awarded bids for improvements to the highway from the underpass to the city limits which will involve construction of a four-lane highway instead of the present two-lane. The city will furnish curb and gutter in the area to be worked on.

Mayor Lawrence Zotz said Tommy Bass, local taxi owner and operator, proposes running a bus service in the city to serve industrial workers, school children, and in the west side of town. Since this was not on the agenda no action was taken and it is expected that Bass will appear at the next council meeting with his proposal.

In other business, council authorized city code enforcement officer Ed Bigbee to take whatever action is necessary to compel E. L. Kahler to clean up some lots that are full of junk, also clean up around one of his rent houses.

Anton Kopriva Jr. appeared before the council with a 30-name petition to have something done to the Kahler property, saying it is a health and fire hazard. The petition will be given to city attorney Ed Magre, who was not present.

A letter of commendation for the volunteer ambulance service was read from Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Radtke, expressing their thanks for action that helped save the man's life. Monroe Fuchs, speaking for the service, asked that persons with special health conditions fill out a form detailing same for an ambulance directory. They may do this at city hall.

Mike Cullen, owner of Western Cable, presented a revised franchise ordiance and asked for a rate increase of $1 per hookup. Council approved first reading of the ordinance.

Councilman Lincoln Mondrik proposed that the city build a new city hall, using sales tax rebate monies. Councilwoman Jan Luecke agreed, but nothing can be done now under the present budget, which has earmarked those funds.

ATTENDING the District 10 4-H Gold Star Honor Awards Banquet in Taylor were, from left, County Extension Agent Chris Holcombe, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Biar of Thorndale, Lorna Biar who is the 1976 Gold Star Girl for Milam County, Peter Riola, Gold Star Boy; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riola of Cameron.

JP Rules In Death Of Local Woman Saturday

A ruling of death by natural causes was handed down by Justice of the Peace Jess Brock Tuesday in the death of a Cameron woman Saturday night.

Charlotte Ruth Sanders, 21, was found dead in bed in her home at 1001 W. 6th around 5 a.m. Saturday by her family. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Judge Brock and the body was taken to Phillips and Luckey Funeral Home where services were pending.

According to family witnesses, the woman and her brothers had been out and Sanders went to bed when they came in. When they later tried to rouse her, they found her dead.

Traffic Survey To Point Need For New Signs

A traffic safety engineering survey will be conducted in Cameron Friday, according to Ed Bigbee, city code enforcement officer.

Jim Mallory, area traffic engineer for McLennan Community College, will conduct the survey.

Bigbee said the survey is necessary to meet federal standards and signs must also meet federal standards as to location and height. Bigbee said most of the signs in Cameron are obsolete according to the standards and will have to replaced.

The signs will be paid for by the Governor's Safety Program but the city must bear the expense of installation, Bigbee said.

Bigbee expressed concern over the large number of city signs that are being damaged, defaced or removed by vandals. He hopes parents will talk with their children about the vandalism and emphasized that tax money has to be used to replace the signs.

The signs cost about $50 to install.

"Even with the Governor's Safety Program paying for the signs, it is still tax money that is being used," Bigbee said, "and it seems that anyone would want to prevent the vandalism which is robbing the state and city of needed signs."

Bigbee said a similar survey has recently been completed in Rockdale and called for 300 signs in that city. Thorndale also has had the survey with signs being ordered there.

The surveys are under the direction of the Central Texas Council of Governments Traffic Safety Division.

Chamber To Honor Highway Department

The Cameron Area Chamber of Commerce will honor staff members of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, District 17, on Tuesday, Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Highway committee chairman L. W. Turner Jr. said tickets will be available through Monday, Nov. 22. Tickets may be purchased at the Chamber office or from the ticket committee: Booker T. Williams, Bill Lowe, Louis Pavlicek, Vernon Landmark, Charles Strode, Warren Rinn, Alvin Roberts, Dan Smith, Mike Zajicek, Hal Stanislaw, Bob Turner, Milton Wright, Olan Armstrong, James Anderle, Litt Barrett, Reeves Brown, Bob Martin, LaVert McKinney, Ned McElwrath, Charles Treptow, and Dr. H. R. Sharpe.

Turner said, "A barbecue meal will be served and dress will be casual. We hope there will be the usual good turnout from our community."

In The News, Briefly

Falling Wall Injures Man

A building in the dismantling process collapsed and injured a Cameron man about 2 p.m. Monday, sending him to a Temple hospital.

Sam Alongi of Cameron, owner of "Big Daddy's" on Jefferson St., received back injuries when a wall of the building he was taking down next door to the club collapsed and fell on him.

He was taken to Scott and White Hospital in Temple by the Cameron Volunteer Ambulance Service for treatment.

Permit Issued For New Motel

A building permit for a 40- unit motel was taken out Tuesday, according to Ed Bigbee, code enforcement officer, and the structure will be built next to the Pitt Grill on SH 36 in Cameron. The motel will be a two-story type of structure.

The permit was taken out by Wesley E. Duncan, of Snyder, Bigbee said.

Annual Community-Wide Thanksgiving Service Set

The annual community - wide Thanksgiving service will be held at the First Baptist Church this Sunday evening at 7.

Rev. Charles Treptow will be the liturgist, Father Louis Pavlicek will preach the sermon and the Community Choir will present special music.

Everyone is invited to attend this service, sponsored by the Cameron Ministerial Alliance.

Yoe Boosters Set Barbeque

The Yoemen Booster Club will honor the 1976 Yoe High football teams with an annual barbecue Monday, Nov. 22 at the Knights of Columbus Hall starting at 7 p.m.

This year's club, believed to be the largest ever, has 238 members this year.

All members are invited and urged to attend as the Booster of the Year will be selected. The award will be presented at the annual All-Sports Banquet.

Junior Historians Set Annual Fair

Yoe High School Junior Historians are sponsoring the annual History Fair at the National Guard Armory on November 22 and 23.

The fair will be open to the public Nov. 22 from 3 to 6 p.m. and on Nov. 23 from 1 until 9 p.m.

Students from Ada Henderson, O. J. Thomas Junior High and Yoe High School have been invited to attend and participate. The public is invited to come and view displays in the fair.

Fire Destroys Tavern, Houses

Cameron volunteer firemen were called to a fire Friday night and found Vargas' Tavern and two small adjacent houses on the corner of Jefferson and Tyson engulfed in flames when they arrived.

Cause of the fire is unknown at this time and no one was injured in the blaze.

Israel Expects Changes Under Carter Tenure

By John Chadwick

TEL AVIV

Reuter - Israel expects that the arrival of the Carter Administration will mean the end of step-by-step diplomacy in the Middle East as developed by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Even the Ford Administration was talking of ending this kind of diplomacy and moving towards the search for an overall settlement, an official source said. Under a Carter Administration the method would finally be abandoned, he said.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said in a radio interview that he believed the Carter Administration would adopt the same "bipartisan" policy towards Israel and the Arab states as President Ford.

But in referring to Dr. Kissinger already in terms of history - Rabin said Israelis might one day remember the Kissinger days "with nostalgia" -- the prime minister indicated that he expected a new style if not new aims of Middle East diplomacy from the White House.

Official sources said today: "We do not foresee any change in the basic American direction in the Middle East."

"We think these are reasonable goals right now. As far as Israel is concerned, we have no reason to start suggesting anything new."

Officials were at pains to downplay suggestions made in some quarters here that Israel was smugly expecting at least a six-month "reprieve" from serious peace efforts as the Ford Administration ran out its term and Mr. Carter settled in.

They said that in any case, during the two month interim before the new president took over, Israel would be fully occupied in a war of words which it expected the Arab states to launch at the United Nations.

After the, at least temporary, reconciliation between Egypt and Syria and the conclusion of a ceasefire in Lebanon, however tenuous it might turn out to be, a psychological offensive was now expected against Israel at the United Nations, they said.

The renewal of the U. N. peacekeeping mandate on the occupied Golan Heights of Syria at the end of November could provide new pressures, although there had been no sign of this so far, they said. The Arabs were also expected to raise other subjects including the situation in the occupied territories and possible Israel's relations with South Africa.

"There is expected to be an Arab drive in the U. N., probably more intensive than ever before in the General Assembly which has been relatively quiet up to now," the sources said.

They may try to cover up their frustrations over Lebanon through diplomatic efforts against Israel at the U.N."

But Israel is not likely to boycott any of the U.N. proceedings, as it has done before. Ambassador Haim Herzog will vigorously defend Israeli positions - but will not refer to the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) or its representatives by name, the sources indicated.

Nor does Israel expect the new American administration to change its stance on the PLO.

Reaction here so far to Mr. Carter's victory has been generally favorable. Apart from traditional Jewish links with the Democratic Party in the United States, Israelis have been encouraged by statements made by the president - elect in his campaign speeches.

Especially sweet music to Israelis was his apparently categoric promise that if the Arab states were to try "economic blackmail" he would impose counter - measures. The recorded statement was replayed on Israel radio following his victory.

Former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan - no particular fan of Kissinger - style diplomacy, which induced Israel to vacate considerable areas of western Sinai for little more than promises by Egypt not to rock the boat, said he welcomed Mr. Carter's victory and his warnings to the Arabs not to try another oil embargo.

The left wing health minister, Victor Shemtov, said he expected new American peace initiatives to start in March or April. "Whoever thinks the status quo will be maintained is mistaken," he said.

The Jerusalem post today expected "an essential continuity" in these peace efforts. "It would be as foolhardy however to expect a Carter Administration to support Israel diplomatically, militarily and economically with no strings attached as it would be wrong to fear that it might go back on promises made by President Ford."

The best way of safeguarding Israel's interests would inevitably be judged by Americans in terms of the U. S. national interest, the paper said.

Progress In Pleasure-Pain?

The pleasure - pain principle may be stretched to creditability, but it seems several guys on "death row" around the country want to die so they can "live" a little.

It relates to motivation of individual assassins who flash across front pages and news shows and into foot notes in history books by "X-ing" a president, a king or dictator.

Convicted murderers in Utah and Texas want to go out either with everybody on late-night TV watching or with bravado drawing the applause of fellow inmates.

There is probability of guilt gathering over these guys, victims of their own lack of self-control, but it is just as likely they have come to terms with themselves and want to be remembered for how they died as much or more than why.

One says he wants to demonstrate what happens to people who commit a capital crime, a sort of "public hanging" to remind the folks what brutality awaits their brutal and stupid acts.

In Central - City America, where acts of bestiality have authorities baffled and outnumbered in their excess, serious people are evaluating the ultimate means to shock even the beasts of the night of their certain fate.

Since Central-City America watches TV as much as anybody, the Texan's request for a public execution might literally shock sense into adult America.

Social scientists are lacking in explanation as to how, otherwise, to deal with the magnitude of these problems. More jobs and better schools must have a starting place.

A starting place usually is a level place on the ground which will support a foundation, usually built by contributions of the whole community.

But "street people" are intimidating whole metro sections of America. And until they are convinced it pays to be a part of the building process, they will continue to contribute to the law's concern over what is "going down."

If we as a people are still not beyond brutality, a public display of legalized extermination, particularly with the consent of the convicted, may turn events to the positive.

The Vietnam War was abbreviated, if not ended by U.S. television coverage of mayhem in Indo-China.

The public conscience may find an assist in city crime control by satisfying a convicted murderer's desire to end life in public.

FML. . .

Cost Confirmation?

It is early, but possible that the U. S. Postal Service is finding the handle on costs.

This is good news to everybody, particularly first-class mail, second-class for publications and fourth class for parcel post and other packaging.

Newspapers and magazines last year combined efforts to gain a $307-million supplement from Congress to avoid further mail increases which are putting magazines and newspapers on newsstands and not through the mails.

Mail costs compelled increases to the public across the board and compelled publications to increase subscriptions and in many cases newsstand prices.

The cycle may be ending in that the Postal Service has retired 50,000 employees without replacement the past year and is bringing monthly figures to a surplus for the past quarter. Postmaster Gen. Ben Bailar said it was $15 millions.

Says Bailar: "This $15 million surplus takes on an even greater significance when we note the fact that a deficit of as much as $425 million for the quarter was originally projected 15 months ago."

That indeed is good news to mailers everywhere. And like so many others newspapers and magazines are heavy users of first and second - class mail services, services which may compel alternative means of distribution if this surplus is but a pause in the rising cycle of distribution costs.

Daily newspapers in metro areas long ago have gone as high as 95 per cent to newsboy and newsstand distribution. The successful "People" magazine published by Luce publications is distributed entirely on newsstands.

We anticipate with fingers crossed confirmation that the Postal Service is now in control of its costs.

How To Slice Revenues Is Question

How to slice up $2.6 billion to $3 billion in additional state revenues next year dominated discussion at Texas Press Association's briefing on the 1977 legislature.

Governmental leaders made clear there are no shortage of ideas for putting all the money — and more — to use.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said demands for new spending already total $5 billion.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said Gov. Dolph Briscoe's $850 million school finance plan and highway aid bill and a $1 billion capital reserve account, coupled with elimination of the sales tax, add up to $2.9 billion.

Briscoe said he still favors socking away $1 billion of the so-called surplus into a rainy day, interest-drawing reserve, as a hedge against an expected future decline in oil tax income. In his presentation to the TPA briefing, the governor also assigned top priority to his $1.6 billion school-highway programs.

Bullock warned that the items he enumerated do not cover funds for inflationary costs of government services or pay raises to state employees and school teachers.

Both Clayton and Hobby jumped on state college building bonds secured by tuition revenues. Clayton termed the bonds "gimmick financing," and promised a bill to pay them off. The bill was pre-filled last week to establish a $170 million bond retirement fund. It would be used to retire tuition and constitutional water development bonds which are subject to call.

Other key legislative problems discussed included crime control bills, medical malpractice insurance, energy matters, tax code reform, and coal slurry pipeline rights of way.

Roads Wearing

More than 70,000 miles of main Texas roads and streets will wear out within the next 10 years due to a 24 per cent increase in traffic, a former state highway engineer has warned.

J.C. Dingwall, state chairman of The Road Information Program TRIP, said three-fourths of the 94,198 miles of major Texas trafficways should be resurfaced or reconstructed by 1986 to serve 2.2 million vehicles traveling 100 billion miles a year.

Unemployment Down

Unemployment dropped a tenth of a percentage point in September, leaving 9,300 fewer Texans out of work than the month before. Texas Employment Commission said total employment also declined by 32,000.

TEC found 5.4 per cent of a 292,000-member Texas labor force officially jobless, reflecting in part that summer job seekers had withdrawn from the labor force and gone back to the classrooms.

Courts Speak

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld an Amarillo forgery conviction, as directed by the U.S. Supreme Court, but directed district attorneys they cannot appeal its decision to the top federal court. The district attorney in Amarillo successfully carried the forgery conviction to the Supreme Court, after the Texas court originally overturned it.

Texas Supreme Court told a Houston juvenile court it must consider a 22-year-old mother's complaint that she was misled through lies into relinquishing her infant son.

The Third court of Civil Appeals held that the City of Temple cannot be forced by a utility consumer to roll back electrical rates and refund charges. The court emphasized no charge of discrimination was made by the man bringing the suit challenging a 1975 rate hike.

The state Supreme Court set a January 5 review of a Galveston case involving forfeiture of $7,692 seized in a gambling raid.

Holding Line

Legislative Budget Board, continuing its efforts to hold the line on spending, recommended no salary raises for management-type state employees, including the governor.

The board voted 6-2 to accept House Speaker Bill Clayton's motion to freeze "exempt" positions at 1977 levels. Presidents of state colleges and universities are included in the "exempt" group whose salaries are covered by individual line items in the appropriations act rather than the job classification system.

Not only top officials but a $6,550 a year secretary for the Board of Physical Therapy Examiners are affected. Clayton said the lower-paid employees in exempt jobs will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis later.

Schnabel Bows Out

Senate Secretary Charles Schnabel announced he will not seek re-election by senators to his $37,500 a year job when his term expires January 10.

The veteran official yielded to pressure of some senators and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby who wanted him to step down.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editors:

As Milam County co-chairmen of the Carter-Mondale Campaign for President and Vice-President, we would like to express our appreciation to the fine service rendered by the personnel and staff of the Cameron Herald in formulating the very demonstrative ads and the news stories concerning our pleasant and rewarding campaign.

It was a pleasure to work with many organizations over the county in this effort. Your fairness and concern in this campaign is appreciated by all of our workers. We express our gratitude to Debs Hensley, our new Democratic chairman. Again, may we say thanks for the assistance given us in this necessary governmental endeavor. Your cooperation is very much appreciated.

Respectfully yours,
Max McClaren
Carroll W. Glaser

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Although it took them a long time to catch on--farmers caught on years ago--big cities are now organizing to get some financial help from Washington. In fact, they want a Department of Urban Affairs established, along with an Urban Bank to lend them money at a reasonable, that is to say a foreign aid, rate of interest, say 2 or 3 percent and certainly not more than 4.

The reason they need help is that a lot of them are almost broke, their finances and services in shambles and everybody taxed all he can stand, which I don't understand as I've always been told the most of the brains of the country are located in big cities. In fact, the notion was that when a young man in a small town suddenly demonstrated exceptional ability, some big city would snap him up.

Looks like the small towns have been double-crossing the cities and sending them he wrong people.

Anyway, about this Department of Urban Affairs, the cities want established in Washington. They say farmers and ranchers have a Department of Agriculture, why can't cities have something too?

I'm in favor of it, maybe it'll get the cities' minds off the mess they've made, but my advice is don't expect too much. I mean, we've had a Department of Agriculture for generations and the price of cattle is the same today it was 25 years ago. On the hoof, not at the supermarket.

Nonetheless we shouldn't discourage cities from trying. If backward countries can get help in Washington, why not backward cities? After all there are human beings in those cars stacked up bumper-to-bumper every afternoon at 5.

By the way, there are two kinds of backward countries: (1) those that, despite their backwardness, know how to get in touch with Washington and (2) those so backward they never heard of the place. Our cities have now moved up into the first category.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News
Compiled From Sources Of The
TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
John C. White, Commissioner

Adding It Up . . . Number Two And Three . . . Down From Last Year.

While the figures are still being compiled on 1976 agriculture income, Texas during 1975 continued its number two and three rankings nationwide in value of crops and livestock.

Texas ranked number three in crop and livestock total value in 1975 with a total of $5.8 billion. If you add the $281,000,000 in timber income, that would put Texas above $6 billion. Only Iowa and California are above the $6 billion figure.

In crop value, Texas was third with $2.8 billion; in livestock and livestock products, Texas is second with $3 billion.

A half dozen Texas counties during 1975 had more than $100,000,000 in value in crops and livestock. The number one county in the state is Deaf Smith with a crop and livestock value of $180,860,000. Other counties in the top ten in crop and livestock total values are Hidalgo, Parmer, Castro, Hale, Lamb, Wharton, Lubbock, Swisher, and Hansford.

The top ten counties in crop value were Hidalgo, Parmer, Deaf Smith, Hale, Castro, Wharton, Lamb, Cameron, Lubbock, and Floyd. The top ten counties in livestock and livestock product values are Deaf Smith, Gonzales, Hopkins, Castro, Nacogdoches, Shelby, Parmer, Sherman, Swisher, and Hansford.

The $5.8 billion figure for Texas' 1975 farm income of crops and livestock represents a slight increase from 1974, but is considerably below the $6.5 billion figure for 1973.

Take a look at the gross and net income figures for the state and you get a better idea of how Texas farmers are faring financially.

Net farm income is down $132,800,000 from 1974; and the 1974 net is down $33,200,000 from 1973. The year of 1973 was the big one in net farm income for Texas with $2 billion plus.

On a per-farm basis in Texas, the average farm produced a net income of $4,610 in 1975.

Total gross income from agriculture nationwide as well as Texas is expected to be near the 1975 levels, but net income is expected to be lower due to increased production costs.

HARVEST OF THIS YEAR'S CROPS is fairly close to the three-year average overall. Corn harvest is more than 85 per cent complete; cotton harvest is about a fourth finished; sorghum harvest is nearing completion. Peanut and soybean harvests are close to the three-year average levels.

Wheat planting is more than 80 per cent finished and oat planting is more than two-thirds complete.

Elsewhere throughout the state, pecan harvest continues to progress and production is about 50 per cent under a year ago.

In the Rio Grande Valley, citrus harvest continues. Planting of spring onions is active with some replanting required.

On the Coastal Bend, cucumber harvest is in progress; in the San Antonio Winter Garden area, bell pepper harvest continues.

Be On The Lookout . . . Plunge Parity Plunge . . . Change Coming.

From now through the early part of January, 1977, you may receive a livestock or crop questionnaire from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

If you do get such a questionnaire, you are requested to fill it out as accurately as possible and return it as promptly as possible. About 75,000 such forms will be mailed to farmers and ranchers. They will be used to make determinations on the size of Texas agriculture.

The individual report is confidential, available to no other government agency or anyone except the few persons required to process the data.

They will form the basis for state and county agriculture estimates.

This roundup survey of crop and livestock numbers is made annually by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Statistical Reporting Service.

PARITY CONTINUES ITS DOWNWARD PLUNGE. As of the middle of October, parity was 68 per cent; a year ago it was 77; even a month ago it was 71.

Lower prices for a host of farm commodities, notably hogs, corn, soybeans, and wheat, are responsible.

In Texas, the average prices received by farmers were unchanged from a month ago, but the average prices for livestock and livestock products decreased one per cent.

On an individual basis, though, you get a clearer picture of what has happened.

Only one commodity -- oats -- is above parity. All others are substantially under the parity ratio, and most are considerably under price levels of a year ago.

Cotton is the one exception. Cotton averaged 64.5 cents per pound in the state; a year ago, cotton was bringing only 43.5 cents per pound. But despite the big jump in a year, cotton is still about 25 cents per pound below parity.

Hog prices are another big exception in the opposite direction. Hog prices averaged $31.70 per hundredweight a month ago; a year ago, the average price was $54.80.

Wheat prices averaged $2.68 in the state compared to $3.95 a year ago. Sorghum prices averaged $3.77 per hundredweight as of the middle of October; a year ago the average price was $4.46.

Beef cattle averaged $30.10; parity is $52.40. Calf prices averaged $32.30; parity is $67.20.

YOU NEED TO BE AWARE of a change coming Jan. 1, 1977, when you buy certified seed.

You'll need to look at both tags on the bag of certified seed.

The change is being made to assure a more dependable supply of seed officially certified as to genetic identity.

One of the labels will give the variety and kind of seed; the other label will provide an analysis of the seed

Fat Can Boost Feeding For Most Beef Cattle

OVERTON

Research conducted by Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientists indicates that including protected lipids (tallow or fat) in the diet of steers and heifers has the potential of reducing feeding time and increasing feed efficiency.

The research was carried out at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Overton by Dr. Myron McCartor, beef cattle nutritionist; Richard Rhodes, graduate student; and Dr. R. D. Randel, reproductive physiologist. The research project involved 60 heifers and 42 steers, all Brahman X Hereford F1 crosses.

The concept of protecting certain nutrients from ruminal fermentation so they are released in other parts of the digestive system offers for the first time the opportunity to utilize various parts of the ruminant digestive system more efficiently.

Interest in feeding protected lipids has been increased by the development of an economical commercial process of encapsulating tallow in plant proteins. Previous research at other locations has shown that protecting the fat content of the diet until it reaches the true stomach and intestines in ruminant animals keeps the fat from being broken down and absorbed in different forms. The new method of encapsulating the fat also allows the use of polyunsaturated oils in the diet which in turn remain polyunsaturated when they are absorbed and deposited in the animal's body.

According to McCartor, heifers receiving a diet containing protected tallow required 12 per cent less total feed and 36.6 per cent less concentrates per unit of gain than the control groups. Treated heifers tended to gain faster and more efficiently than controls but not significantly so. Feeding protected tallow increased fat deposition in the heifers and significantly increased intramuscular fat. Even though the condition score and weight per day of age at puberty were significantly increased by feeding the protected tallow to heifers, significantly fewer treated animals reached puberty during the trial period.

Steers in the project were grazed on wheat - oat - ryegrass winter pasture prior to the feeding rial. Six of the steers were slaughtered when they came off winter pasture and the remaining steers were placed on feeding trials for 57 days. Although the diets of both the control and treated groups were calculated to produce essentially equal gains based on current net energy values for the feedstuffs used, rate of grain was increased and feed conversion was improved by feeding the protected tallow.

Based on these and other data, it appears that protected lipids have the potential of reducing the feeding time required to produce equivalent quality beef and do the job more efficiently.

Comparing carcasses of steers fed 57 days with carcasses of steers slaughtered directly from winter pasture, McCartor indicated that feeding increased yield, subcutaneous fat, marbling, yield grade and USDA quality grade. Feeding also tended to reduce the amount of yellow color in the carcass fat.

"Most important in this project," McCartor emphasized, "is the fact that feeding increased the dressing percentage and also increased the value of the controls $1.41 per day per head while the value of steers receiving protected lipids increased $1.58 per head per day. Feeding protected lipids therefore increased the carcass value by 17 cents per day per head above that of controls. This means that the relatively short feeding period has the potential of increasing net profit per animal for the producer and the use of protected lipids can mean even more margin."

Other research in California showed similar improvements in feed efficiency and carcass grade. USDA and California research showed that feeding protected polyunsaturated oils produced polyunsaturated beef in slaughter steers and polyunsaturated dairy products when fed to dairy cows. In other University of California studies, volunteers who ate only meat and dairy products from cttle fed protected polyunsaturated oils showed reductions in serium cholesterol levels.

Beef Profits Hinging On Prices

A livestock marekting specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says that beef producers shouldn't worry too much about the amount of beef they supply to consumers, but nether should the expect profits to increase unless retail prices go up.

Dr. Ed Uvacek points out that beef per capita consumption in several foreign countries is considerably higher than that of the U. S. "We, therefore, are probably nowhere near our ultimate limit in U. S. beef consumption," he contends.

Uvacek notes that higher prices paid for beef by U. S. consumers do not necesarily constitute a profit for producers unless consumption levels are maintined or increased. "Producers profits can only come from increased consumer demand for beef and higher retail prices," points out the economist.

Marketing costs are cited by Uvacek as a key factor inhibiting producer profits. "Marketing costs have and will continue to increase at a fantastic rate. Thus, more dollars cannot be returned to the producer until the number of dollars spent are increased."

The specialist says that U. S. consumers will eat all the beef this nation can produce. The question is, at what price will they consume it?

The first pole vaulter to clear the bar at 15 feet was Cornelius Warmerdam on April 13, 1940, in Berkeley, California.

Questions Common Now On Wintering Beef Cattle

By Bill McCutchen

One question that is quite common this time of year is how should I feed my cattle this winter. This is a tough question and certainly requires more information than this to answer intelligently.

Several questions that must be answered are: Are they dry or lactating cows, are they in thin, moderate, or good condition; what kinds of pasture and hay are available?

John Spitzer, Extension beef specialist suggests ranking your herd from 1 to 9 in terms of condition. Condition 1 would be a starving situation bordering on inhumane. Condition 5 is the minimum condition necessary for rebreeding. A cow in this condition has some fat covering along backbone and ribs with spongy fat over the ribs. She looks generally good in appearance. Condition 9 is the other end of the spectrum. A cow in this condition is extremely fatty and patchy. She i s fat enough that it may cause calving problems.

Grade your cattle. If you have cattle in conditions 1-3 going into the winter, probably the best solution for you is to sell these cows as they will not rebreed in this condition and the 200 pounds or so that they would have to gain to get them in condition that they will rebreed would probably not be economical.

If you have dry cows in a condition 6 or better and fair quality pasture or hay, very little supplemental protein or energy may be necessary through the winter as she can pull a little flesh off her back without hurting reproduction.

Assuming good management practices such as internal parasite control, and free choice minerals are practiced, the following guide is suggested by Dr. Dennis Herd, Beef Cattle Nutritionist, for supplemental feeding.

1. Feed an 8-12% phosporus supplement of similar calcium content, free choice year around.
2. Inject or feed Vitamin A if in doubt.
3. Always feed enough protein to maintain a 6% plus protein ration for maintenance reumen function and feed intake. Additional protein will be needed for some production situations. When in doubt about the amount and type of supplement to feed with low quality forage, feed a dry pregnant cow .4 lb. of actual Supplemental Crude Protein or the equivalent of 1 lb. of a 40% protein supplement and a lactating cow a .8 lb. of actual crude protein or the equivalent of 2 lb. of a 40% protein supplement.
4. Use cow condition or fatness as a guide to additional feeding. Loss of weight or condition suggests more energy, and thus pounds of supplement is needed. The protein content can be decreased in proportion to the increased level of supplemental feeding.

PLENTY OF SPINACH FOR POPEYE--Popeye would feel at home in Texas. During 1975, Texas ranked first in the nation in production of spinach, as well as watermelons, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. Hidalgo County was the leading vegetable-producing county, harvesting 50,700 acres.

Gause

By Mrs. Wanda Lee

The school children had a holiday Monday. It was a teacher's work day, which means it won't be long until report card time. School will be dismissed at the close of the day Wednesday, Nov. 24 for the Thanksgiving Holidays, Nov. 25 and 26.

Deer season opened this past Saturday but seems a lot of the hunters thought it was just too bad to get out. I'm sure there were plenty that did, tho. If this past weekend was any indication of winter, I may freeze!

The Gause Community Improvement Program will sponsor a Thanksgiving Dinner Benefit on Sunday, November 21 from 12 noon until 2 p.m. at the Gause School lunchroom. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children and may be purchased from a C.I.P. member or a member of the Gause 4-H Club. Proceeds from this dinner will go to the Milam County Youth Exposition Building in Cameron. This building will benefit children of our community, as well as other children of the county.

Mrs. Cecil Butler was in Waco on Wednesday of this past week to have medical tests made, and the tests turned out favorable. The Garland Huxes of Cameron visited with Mr. and Mrs. Butler on Sunday.

H. B. Alexander is now a patient in a Bryan hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Palmer of Elgin visited for awhile Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Young. They had been to their deer lease, with no luck.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Cass, Dwayne, Lisa and Carmen of Lexington visited Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. Koye Cass. It was Theopal's birthday and Jimmy and the children had taken her out to eat.

Mrs. Robbie Fayle of Franklin and Rev. J. Q. Jones of New Baden visited one afternoon this past week with Mrs. Lillie Harris.

Local Pharmacy Receives Award

Many community leaders and friends of the E. O. Schiller family were on hand on a recent Saturday for a special Bicentennial Celebration.

Dr. E. Wood Hall, professor of pharmacy at the University of Texas at Austin and chairman for Texas Pharmacy American Revolution Bicentennial Celebration, presented Schiller Pharmacy the Texas Pharmaceutical Association Bicentennial Award for continuing operation as a pharmacy. The award also commended the business as a valued contributor to the growth and well - being of this Central Texas community since the turn of the century.

The pharmacy has been in continuous operation since the first license was issued in 1850.

It has been part of the Schiller family since the turn of the century when the late E. O. Schiller Sr. took over the operation from Dr. Reese and Dr. Sapp.

A special pharmaceutical display was arranged by E. O. Schiller Jr. as part of the presentation. Among display items were apothacary jars and a cork press used to cork prescription and patent medicine bottles of the late 19th and 20th centuries. Also displayed were various apparatus for compounding and filtering early medicines.

Present for the award presenation were many of the community leaders and friends of the Schiller family. Helping with the presentation of the award were Cameron Mayor Lawrence Zotz and the Hon. Don G. Humble, district judge.

The drug store will continue to be operated by a Schiller following the death of E. O. Schiller Jr. on Nov. 7. Bob Schiller, son of E. O., will continue operation of the drug store. Bob is a registered pharmacist and formerly operated Schiller Script Shop.

Interesting Facts About Turkey Day

In this bicenntennial year of American heritage, a few interesting facts about "Turkey Day" may provide some extra meaning to the holiday.

Surprisingly, America was not the first country to celebrate some form of Thanksgiving. They also observed it in China, Greece, Russia, Norway, Poland, and Lithuania.

When the Pilgrims first came to this country, they knew very little about farming, but an Indian named Squanto helped and they were able to harvest some corn and barley.

To celebrate their first success, Governor Bradford named a date in late 1621 as a day of thanks. Hunters scoured the woods and returned with turkeys, wood pigeons, partridges, geese, and ducks, while the women prepared puddings and hoecakes. Because the Indians had been so helpful, the Pilgrims invited them to join their celebration -- and it was a good thing, for the Indians contributed five deer.

It was also the Indians who first introduced eating oysters to the settlers. During the three-day feast, they even set a precedent for our Thanksgiving holidays today --they participated in races and athletic events. Just think of how many big athletic events are held in the U.S. that weekend.

Thanksgiving in 1621 was largely a social occasion, but the second Thanksgiving in 1623 was probably the real start of our present holiday, for it was a religious day as well as social.

During the next 200 years, Thanksgiving was not celebrated on any one special day, until Sept. 1863, when President Abraham Lincoln proclaimed that Thanksgiving be celebrated on the last Thursday in November. The menu of that day was much like the one used widely today -- cranberry juice, roast turkey with dressing, sweet potatoes, creamed onions, cranberry sauce, squash, pumpkin pie, plum pudding, mince pie, milk, and coffee.

Like Christmas, Thanksgiving brings out the altruism and generosity in people. For 200 years, Americans have helped the less fortunate by providing them with food, clothing, and other necessary items. For many, it is also a time families reserve for being together. In a country where families are so geographically separated, it may be a hard thing to manage. But since traditions die hard, this is one family unifier well worth keeping alive.

A Shot In The Dark Plays In Austin

As "A Shot in the Dark," the hilarious comedy-mystery starring Sue Ane Langdon, enters its last two weeks at Austin's Country Dinner Playhouse, many performances are beginning to fill up as theatre-goers try to catch this immensely entertaining play before its finale on Sunday, Nov. 28.

In describing Miss Langdon's impressive talent, John Bustin of the Austin Citizen says, "she has established herself as a leading comedy performer at every turn. She has always shown that special flair that catches the eye and often lights the spark that sets a show on fire."

Sue Ane and her director husband, Jack Emrick, spend their leisure time (what little there is) raising Arabian horses on their ranch in California. They were recently invited to the home of Dr. and Mrs. James R. Fricke to see their Arabians, including Libby and Starrshine, two beautiful three year old Arabian mares.

FASHION

Scarf Look For Fall

Scarf prints, a exciting new fashion fabric look, create garments with individualized uniqueness, Mrs. Becky Culp, an area clothing specialist, points out.

"The 'scarf look' includes large square or rectangular panels with border designs around the four outside edges. Often the design includes a prominent design along the center, spreading toward the borders," she

Mrs. Culp is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

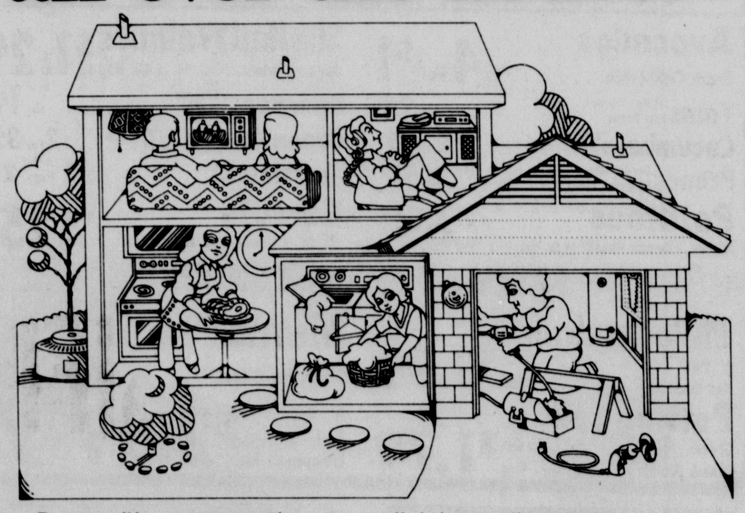
"Scarf prints are usually a medium to lightweight fabric and are available in a variety of fibers and blends. One or more companion, smaller scale prints or solids are often available to coordinate with scarf print fabrics sold by the yard."

The specialist suggested placing scarf panel borders to emphasize certain garment design details such as two borders meeting at the center front or back, or a border outlining a hem, cuff, collar, or yoke. Dominant center scarf designs also can create emphasis by being positioned on the outside of a sleeve or in the center of a garment, she added.

"Due to the extra emphasis scarf prints create, all garments should be tried on before purchase to observe illusions of size and shape created on the body. Also, the home sewer should hold panels up to the body to see illusion created and plan to cut out the garment accordingly.

"The production of scarf print fabrics and labor costs required to design and cut out garments are higher than for comparable simpler fabrics. But the resulting novelty fashion look may well be worth the extra expense," she said.

Still a good buy... all over the house.



Forty or fifty years ago, the electric bill was most often referred to as "the light bill." In thousands of homes, Mr. Edison's illuminating invention was not the only electrically operated device in use, but people associated its benefits with their costs for electricity.

Today, higher costs for electricity seem to overshadow the many benefits of electricity.

The majority of American homes now have at least 14 different electric appliances, in addition to lighting: radio, television, refrigerator, vacuum cleaner, clothes washer, iron, toaster, coffeemaker, mixer, range, frypan, bed coverings, can opener and some type of air conditioner.

Whether you have 14 or 40 electric appliances, we believe that if you will compare their benefits with your costs of operating them, you'll agree that electricity is still a good buy . . . all over the house.

A country gets to be two hundred years old! All at once flags are billowing against the azure sky, people are waving red, white and blue banners, souvenir buttons and coins and all sorts of keepsakes are for sale. But what's it really all about?

As countries go, we're in the prime of life, but we're still old enough to know better about a lot of things.

So, on our united birthday, it might be a good idea to sit down and think about where we've been and where we're going. Let's conjecture about democracy. Let's realize that under our system, we can change things in an orderly fashion. And let's give thanks for our blessings, because we Americans still have many of them.

You need a place in which to think, in which to give thanks. The right kind of a place. How about the church?

Frosh Down Panthers., End Year On Win

The Yoe freshmen football team defeated Pflugerville 27-7 in the final game of the season.

In the first quarter, the Yoemen were not to be denied scoring on their first possession. The score was set up after a 67 yard drive, with Dennis Rosemond carrying the pigskin in from the 2 yard line. Chris Riola kicked the extra point and the freshmen were in command 7-0. After four downs the Panthers were forced to cough up the ball and the Yoemen took over. The Yoemen drove 54 yards before Dow Dodd sprinted 27 yards for the score. The try for two failed, and the Yoemen led 13-0 as the first quarter came to a close.

It was not until late in the second quarter that the Panthers offense began to gel. They scored on a 32-yard pass play over the middle, the PAT was good, but the half ended with the Yoemen on top, 13-7.

The Yoemen retaliated in the third quarter, taking the opening kickoff and marching 63 yards for the TD. Dow Dodd plunged in to the end zone for two and the Yoemen led, 21-7.

It was one more time for the Yoemen in the fourth quarter as Dow Dodd took the pigskin to the Panthers 3 yard line. Edward Rosemond took over from the three and put the finishing touches on the Panthers. The Panthers were unable to move the ball and the game ended with the freshmen in the lead, 27-7.

Defensive standouts for the Yoemen were Dow Dodd, Chris Riola, Terry Lowe, Roy Moraw, and Greg Landmark

Pflugerville Downs Yoe JV, 21-6

The Yoe High Junior Varsity dropped their last game of the season, losing to the Pflugerville Panthers 21-6.

In the first quarter the Panthers took the ball and marched 60 yards to pay dirt. The extra point was good and the Panthers had stepped in front of the Yoemen, 7-0. The Yoemen were unable to sustain the drive needed to score and the quarter ended with the Panthers holding a slight edge, 7-0.

The Panthers struck again in the second quarter, putting the magic 7 on the board. The Yoemen were again unable to move the ball and were forced to leave the field at halftime down by 14.

In the third quarter the Yoemen showed new life, marching 80 yards to put 6 on the scoreboard. The try for two failed, leaving the Yoemen back by 8. A blocked punt late in the third quarter set up the Panthers final score, putting the game out of reach for the Yoemen.

The fourth quarter proved to be a defensive battle with neither team setting up a scoring drive. The game ended with the Panthers on top, 21-6.

The Yoe JV ended their season with 7 wins and 3 losses.

Rockdale To Represent District In Playoffs

The Rockdale Tigers, 24AA champs, will take the test Friday night as they meet the Llano Yellowjackets in Bi-district action.

The injury-plagued Tigers will be running near full force as the fans can expect the return of two of three players who suffered late season injuries. Returning for the Tigers will be defensive halfback Gary White while Mario Garza returns to the Tigers offensive lineup.

The services of quarterback Kerry Locklin will be missed by the Tigers. Locklin suffered a broken leg in the Tigers battle against the Caldwell Hornets early in district play. He will be replaced by sophomore Scott Sparks, who led the Tigers to their last three district wins.

The game is scheduled for Friday, November 19 at Eagle Field in Georgetown. Kick off time for that game is 8 p.m. The winner will travel to meet the winner of the West-Teague playoff in Regional action.

YOU (AND EACH OF YOU) ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the 20th Judicial Distrist Court of Milam County, Texas at the Courthouse thereof, in Cameron, Texas, by filing a written answer at or before 10 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two (42) days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 13th day of December A. D. 1976, to Plaintiff's Petition filed in said Court, on the 20th day of October A.D. 1976, in this cause, numbered 17415 on the docket of said Court and styled THE DOW CHEMICAL COMPANY vs. THE UNKNOWN HEIRS OF FLORENCE ELIZABETH OGDEN, ET AL, Defendants.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit:

Suit is by THE DOW CHEMICAL COMPANY, a corporation, Plaintiff in Trespass to Try Title as provided by Rule 783 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure and the Statutes appertaining thereto, the said Plaintiff alleging that it is the sole and only owner of and is entitled to fee simple title to all that certain tract of land, lying and being situated in Milam County, Texas, being a part of the William E. Harris Headright League, known also as League No. 17 on the Brazos River and described by metes and bounds as follows: Beginning at a stake on the South line of said league, it being the S. W. corner of a survey made for James and Lewis Stedman for the S. E. corner of this tract from which a post oak bears N. 60 W. 3 vrs. and another bears S. 60 E. 5 vrs.; Thence S. 60 W. 380-1/2 vrs. to a stake for corner; Thence N. 30 W. 1214 vrs. to a stake for the N.W. corner of this tract, it being in the North line of the original tract of 160 acres conveyed to Lewis Parker by W. H. Tarver by deed dated June 2, 1870; Thence N. 60 E. 380-1/2 vrs. to the N. E. corner of this tract, it being the N. E. corner of said original tract of 160 acres, from which corner a post oak bears S. 21 W. 9-1/4 vrs. and another bears N. 68 W. 8 vrs.; Thence S. 30 E. 1214 vrs. to the place of beginning, containing 81.8 acres of land, being the East half of the tract of 160 acres above mentioned, conveyed to Lewis Parker by W. H. Tarver.

And Plaintiff brings this suit in Trespass to Try Title against you jointly and severally for the title and possession of such land.

Herein Fail Not, but of this writ and citation make answer as the law requires on or before the date aforesaid.

If this citation is not served within ninety (90) days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve the same according to requirements of law, and the mandates hereof, and make due return as the law directs.

Witness, Grady Allen, Clerk of the District Court (s) of Milam County, Texas.

Issued and given under my hand and the seal of said Court at Cameron, Texas, this the 26th day of October A.D. 1976.
